Gonzaga School Celebrated.

The centenary of the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was celebrated at Gonzaga School with a program of song and verse. A portrait of Longfellow, draped with American flags, occupied a prominent place in the decorated class room, where the seventh and sixth grades assembled to welcome the rector, E. X. Fink, S. J., and Rev. J. B. Pittar, S. J., who were the guests of honor. The program was as follows: "Longfellow," paper by John Hart; "The Day Is Done," recitation by the sixth grade; "The Cumberland," recitation by Aloysius Ganey; "The Bridge," song by the choral class; selection from Evangeline by Joseph Klein; "The Castle by the Sea," recitation by Bernard Nolan; "The Bell of Atro," paper read by Leo Kavanagh; "The Builders," recitation by the seventh grade; "The Psalm of Life," recitation by Francis Norris; "The History of Evangeline," a paper by James Shea; "The Old Clock on the Stairs," recitation by Charles Trotter. The program closed with the stirring strains of "Sail On, O Ship of State," sung by the choral class. the seventh and sixth grades assembled to choral class.

All then listened to the remarks of the "Such an entertainment as we have wit-"Such an entertainment as we have witnessed is an honor not only to the man whose memory inspired it, but to America, to your school and to yourselves," he said. "These noble thoughts clothed in fitting words which you have recited will ever be an incentive to you toward that which is highest and best. The purity and goodness of Longfellow's character is imaged forth to his norms, siving to them that attractive. in his poems, giving to them that attractive-ness which has won for these writings so high a place in American literature."

University Students to Debate.

Railway Sued for Damages. Mary Purdy, administratrix of the estate of Daniel Ferguson, has filed suit in the District Supreme Court to recover $10,000 damages from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, which, she claims, is responsible for the death of Mr. Ferguson. Through Attorneys Campbell Carrington and Hayden Johnson, she alleges, that September 20 last Mr. Ferguson was unloading stone from a freight car of the defendant near Brookland, when the company's ser-vants backed a locomotive against the car with such force that Mr. Ferguson was thrown from the car and killed. Mr. Ferguson left three children.
